

X-Factor

It's old Hollywood glitz and glam all over again. Divine. Outstanding. Interesting. Think of swing, jazz and the blues. Not to forget your 20's flapper girls. Interior concept by Melandas.

Tid Bits

Vintage fairs, flea markets and thrift stores are your next shopping stops. Grab items that give you a nostalgic flair. Oversized clocks, antique mirrors or oriental bits are the best to add a touch of vintage glamour for this project. Japanese Doll, available from Spotlight. Metal accessories from Melandas.

Making your home eco-friendly, and doing it in style.

Re-Vived

Melandas is now back with a big mission to encourage green living. Their furniture collections boast of recycled materials that have been treated to give your home a more fulfilling aim and maintaining the highest of quality and design. Recycled leather strips, anyone?

House
Train-ed

Giving a new lease of life are these tables made from recycled railway track wood. If you're looking for something unique, rest assured to know that no two pieces are alike.

That
Tin-gling
Feeling

Remember that tin can you threw yesterday? It might have been treated, processed and recycled to give birth to artistic cabinets. Snazzy!

Then There Was Light

Even lightings were not spared the eco mission. Made from recycled straw, give Mother Earth a brighter future.

Beauty Sleep

Going eco can be done stylishly with the right accessories and furniture. Check out this simple yet stunning bedroom!

Life's A Ball

How bout some quirky furnishings that are eco-friendly, design-savvy and definitely style-boosting?

Paper Wins Rock

Text by Wani A.

45 days is all it takes.

So you practice the 3Rs of being eco-friendly. Ever thought of recycling paper into... a chair? [Or mirror. Or table at that]. And what better news than to know that they've made their way onto our island, straight from Bangkok! Exclusively available at Melandas Showroom at The Cathay, these babies have jumped into the bandwagon of earth-friendly, eco-saving and absolutely-green furniture and furnishings found in the showroom.

Recycle newspaper as the borders of the mirror. It's time to reflect.

Designed by M.L. Pawinee Santisiri, these furniture are the results of an ingenious way to turn daily wastes into contemporary art pieces. A touch of beauty and a pinch of reused newspapers are the secret ingredients to the production of these home furniture.

All it takes is a pile of recycled paper and 45 days to churn new pieces of art. Offering style and an only-you-have-it factor, it's most befitting for your urban home. In addition, fret not about quality as these furniture are sturdy as a rock!

These superheroes are not only strong, but have given a new meaning to the 75,000 trees that was needed to print a Sunday Edition of the New York Times. Find them at the Melandas Showroom, along with the rest of their eco-friendly collection!

Storage problems? Solve that with these storage bins that also saves the earth!
